

SPECIFICATION AMENDMENTS

Please replace the Abstract, with the following rewritten Abstract:

A method to silence a gene in cells by post-transcriptional gene silencing is described which method employs short RNA molecules (SRMs). SRMs consist essentially of short sense RNA molecules and short antisense RNA molecules which short antisense molecules are complementary to a region of a target RNA transcribed from a gene to be silenced.